A BUSINESS DISPUTE. Emanuel Becht Fined $5 for As sault on Ahraham Sonnenstrahl. Judge Mills had before him this morning Abraham Sonnenstrahl of New York and Emanuel Heelit. They each charged the other with assault and the trouble grew out of an assign ment. Hecht stated that Aaron Sonnenstrahl, a merchant on Seventh street, assigned his stock to his brother Abraham of New York. The latter engaged witness to give him some pro-fessional advice about assignments and was to pay him $5 per day for his work and $35 for his advice. When the sale was over and he demanded his $50 he was assaulted by Abraham.

"Did he not order you out of the store?" inquired the attorney for the defense. "No; he took me by the neck and put me out," was the reply.

Abraham took the stand and stated that he did not employ Hecht and denied the whole story. He said that after the sale Hecht demanded $5 for his services in sale Hecht demanded $5 for his services in preventing people from carrying off the goods. Hecht abused him and said he would show him some Washington law. He said he carried a pistel and warrants and would have witness arrested before he could count ten. He then went for witness dia-mond stud, and he just took Hecht up in his arms and put him out. Hecht was fined $5 and Semenstrahl was dismissed.

THE COLEMAN TRAGEDY.

Lewis Ashton and Jumes Lucas, two olored men, were put on trial in the Police Court to-day for assaulting Ofor Sheehan during his attempt to arest Addison Coleman, the colored as who was shot and killed by him Sunday afternoon. Ashton was also charged with assaulting James H. Howard, the young man who pluckly assisted Officer Shochan. The officer was the first witness. The non were charged under a special statute against charged under a special statute against assembling policemen while in discharge of their duty. The witness stated that he arrested Coleman, the discussed negro, for profamity. He had considerable difficulty in getting Coleman under control. He had to throw Coleman down, and looked around and saw these men was down and his cost was over his head. If he had not been interfered with he would have put Coleman in the wagon without assistance, but he had to call for assistance when he was sord by the crowd, and the only re by he got was from the defendants, who called out, "Kill the — dude," oleman said: "I'll serve ten years for on; I'll kill you.

Mr. Howard, who is a young man of Mr. Howard, who is a young min of rather small size, was called. He was the centre of attraction. Everybody wanted to see the man who so gamely assisted the officer against such large calls. He stated that he responded to the call of the officer, and, in doing so, was assaulted. The officer and the orisoner were down, with the officer on op. He stated that Ashton struck him i the ear and kicked him in the ribs and knocked him against a treebox.

Ashton pulled the cont of the officer over his head and kicked him. Lucas pulled the officer's legs from under him to let Coleman get on top. A young white man named John W. ing away weight. The Rancocas' stables imported cult, Pontiac, has performed in such a manner as to make his bacters happy and said by turns. Yet he is admitted to be the only horse in the East that can make a race really interesting for the Queen, and he defeated her in the Ectentown Stakes.

Freshand, the Western champion, when in condition is a great horse. He was in the pink of condition on August 1, and to him Miss Woodford lowered her colors in the Champion Stakes. Miss Woodford will undantedly be the favorite. If she is all right, as she is said to be, she should win. Fontiac ought to be second. The race comes fifth on the programme. There are six other races.

Biryeling. Mr. Stevens, who is making the tour of the world on a bleyele, arrived on the 8th in Constantinople, where he proposes to remain about two months, so as to avoid the great heat in Syria during July and August.
